

International Sign Language Day 2024

In our daily lives, we talk, we hear, we feel. It is a privilege to have all the senses. Even with the gift of speech, we communicate through our hands and body language almost 90% of the time.

Now imagine a world where your hands and gestures were your primary means of communication. How would you navigate your day? How would you express your thoughts and emotions? For many special individuals around us, this is their everyday reality. They rely on sign language to connect, understand and be understood.

On this International Day of Sign Language, let's take a step towards a more inclusive world. Let's see the world through their eyes and hands. Let us all connect and not just communicate, because a meaningful connection brings in a sense of purpose.

Learn. Communicate. Include.
